JEFFERSON DAVIS once said: "The country might abolish every custom house and admit imports free of duty but we would not enjoy a return of prosperity until silver is remonetized."

Araham Lincoln said: "If a gov ernment contracts a debt with a certain amount of money in circulation and then contracts the money volume before the debt is paid, it is the most heinous crime a government could commit against the people."

Daniel Webster said: "I am clearly of the opinion that gold and silver, at rates fixed by congress, constitute the legal standard of value in this country, and that neither congress nor any state has authority to establish any other standard."

THE talk of the project of building that railroad from Deming to Fairbank is being revived. It is but a matter of time when the iron horse will run over that route touching at Tombetone.

No better place in the United States could be found adapted for the construction and success of a sugar factory than Arizona. Beets can be raised here superior in quality and size to any grown elsewhere. All that is wanted is a man of capital, who has enterprise in him to want to invest in what would prove a profitable business.

MEN are wanted in San Francisco to enlist in the navy. The cruiser Boston is now ready for sea at that port but cannot sail until she secures 200 more men. Other vessels are also in need of men to the number of 200, Here is a chance for ambitious young men to see the world and lots of water and to get a nice clean job, and get paid for it, all at the same time.

SENATOR VEST, who has recently returned from Europe, in the following interesting statement made in his silver speech last week, said: "The argument advanced by the goldites to the effect that in the case of the free coinage of silver in this country the United States would be flooded with the silver of the world is best answered by the fact that while the ratio between the metals in this country is 16 to 1, in Europe it is 154 to 1. In other words silver is given a higher rating in Europe than in America. Over there they believe that 154 ounces of silver is worth one ounce of gold, while according to the ratio in this country it requires 16 ounces of silver to equal the value of one onnce of gold.

THE Prospector, an English newspabia, in a recent article, snaps its fingers at the United States in the following manner: "The Am-rican eagle is dead; independence is dead. England rules the United States with a firmer grasp than she did a century ago. Monometallism does the business You Yankees dare not remonetize cilver unless England says so. Britania rules the United States and the rest of the world. Where now is American freedom? The Yankees are afraid to say their souls are their own without England's consent. Squirm, ye Yankees, squirm. Squirm and bear it. John Bull has get you where he wants you-on a gold basis. Monometallism does the business."

VACUUM CANNING.

It is a New Wrinkle in the Pacific Fruit Country.

A new vacuum process o' canning fruits in glass has lately been introduced from Europe among the packers of the Pacific coast. All the dele terious gases generated in cooking the fruit, and even the air, are extracted under this new process, so the fermentation is reduced to a minimum. No solder is used, and each jar is opened by making a puncture with a penknife, after which the cover can be lifted off entire. The fruit is sol d packed.

In this way there is a saving of treight charges. Formerly the use of resin, soid, solder and hot iron scorched the syrup, and since the aperture in the top of the tin cans was so small that the fruit was often crushed and cut when being placed in the cans, the syrup was for this reason cloudy.
